Zelda Okafor is a black woman living in London who has managed to escape the council estate. She counts herself lucky.

She has a mortgage on a two-bedroom house for her and her little sister, and she is getting along in life.

And then an old friend from the past calls with a favor: take her place for a day as a masseur for a Russian mob boss.

She knows this is foolish, but she loves her friend, and doesn't want to see her get into trouble. She agrees.

Vladimir Bragin is the tallest, most muscular man Zelda has ever seen. He is like a statue carved from marble.

There is not an ounce of fat on him, just thick, deep muscle. When he sees Zelda, he is no longer interested in a massage. He takes her violently, and Zelda loves every second.

She thinks that's the last of it, but then someone breaks in and takes her little sister, and there is only one man she can turn to for help .

... But help from this man doesn't come for free.
