This last book of this trilogy on hunting and the great outdoors features some of the many Lessons Learned during the author's fifty-plus years as a Michigan outdoorsman. It is directed toward young adult hunters and outdoor lovers to teach them self-reliance as well as a deep appreciation, respect, and love of nature and its wild inhabitants. The book starts with small game hunting, progresses through upland bird hunting, waterfowl and deer hunting, and culminates with the sage advice and views of Joe Lunkas. Each section contains unusual and memorable hunt situations, plus valuable Lessons Learned, tips, notes, and story postscripts. Fifty Years of Memorable Hunting Experiences: Lessons Learned of a Michigan Outdoorsman features 36 photo illustrations and captions. All three books in the series are designed and formatted to be read while actually enjoying the outdoors and its rejuvenating solitude. The previous books in the series are Fifty Years of Deer-Stand Reflections, A Memoir of a Michigan Master Deer Hunter (2011), and Fifty Years of Gathering, Fishing, and Unusual Animal Encounters: Lessons Learned of a Michigan Outdoorsman (2013). The books are available in print and ebook formats. Joe Lunkas has always spent the majority of his leisure time hunting, fishing, and gathering. "I am confident that I have achieved my lifelong and final objective of capturing via the written word what it really means to be a seasoned outdoorsman, with the realization of the obligations that this entails. Through my books, my long-term goal is to encourage as many young and not-so-young outdoors persons to follow my lead. These are the individuals that will first share, and someday inherit, my great outdoors and 'steward of the land' responsibilities." Publisher's website: http://sbpra.com/JoeLunkas/
